Hi everyone, every once in a while I pop back on this site and I am always so encouraged and I wonder why I take so long in between to see whats going on with everyone. We are still working at a baby! 8 months post vasectomy reversal. Each month gets easier and I see the Lord working in our lives. If nothing else, my husband and I have grown closer with this experience. I am learning to trust God and wait on his timing. I truly believe He is working. I just want to encourage others who are also waiting. I am praying for you as well. :d
