Hello all, I have spotting (usually always brown) before my period anywhere from 1-2 days up to 4-5 days. So I consider my period starting when it really "starts", that is heavy red bleeding. So first of all in calculating when my fertile time is I dont know if I am putting the right start date. Also, my doctor thinks its a good time to try clomid, we have been ttc for 9 months, I am turning 40 this month 8o. My period is "scheduled" to start Feb. 21 (by my calculations). So she wants me to start clomid on day 3 whether it's spotty blood or full. Well this morning I had a bit of bright red blood. Ok, is that the early spotting? If it happened to be implantation spotting would clomid be harmful? Its a holiday weekend so I cant contact my doctor but i know there is a wealth of knowledge in this group! Has anyone else dealt with this stuff? Bye the way, my husband and I have discussed and prayed about the clomid. He is in agreement that it is worth a try. I have asked the Lord if he doesnt want me to use it to make it evident. So I guess my question is should i start the clomid on Monday? Ahhhhhhh.....
